Introduction

This resource has been produced in two different formats:

- a self-access resource for learners with online activities
- this teacher's pack, including teacher's notes and worksheets to download

Overview

This resource, Someone on the phone – Changing an appointment, is part of Unit 2 of English in my home, which aims to give ESOL learners the confidence and the language to deal with situations they may encounter in their homes.

There are three units of English in my home:

Unit 1 Someone at the door aims to give learners confidence and equip them with the language necessary to deal with situations where unexpected callers (e.g. an electricity meter reader) arrive at the door.

Unit 2 Someone on the phone shows how to deal with incoming phone calls from a range of people. This includes unwanted calls (e.g. marketing cold calls).

Unit 3 Something in the post features some common types of mail that people receive (e.g. a utility bill), and enables learners to understand what the text means, and to know what to do in response.

Level: Entry 2 / Access 3 in Scotland / CEF A2. The materials are designed to be flexible in terms of differentiation, and are accessible to established E2 learners and at the same time relevant to E1, as, well as E3 and L1.

Structure, learning hours and delivery context

English in my home provides a minimum of 15 hours of learning in a classroom or self-access context through a series of three linked units. Each unit can be taught as a standalone. Here is an overview of the content of each unit. Each unit has several topics:

Unit 1: Someone at the door (includes films)

- Topic a: Electricity meter reading
- Topic b: Charity collection
- Topic c: Parcel delivery
- Topic d: The neighbour
- Topic e: The noisy television
- Topic f: The teacher's visit

Unit 2: Someone on the phone (includes films)

- Topic a: Cold call
- Topic b: Wrong number
- Topic c: An emergency
- Topic d: Getting a plumber
- Topic e: Changing an appointment
- Topic f: The teacher's phone call

Unit 3: Something in the post

- Topic a: Bank statement
- Topic b: Phone bill
- Topic c: Attempted delivery note
- Topic d: Note from a neighbour

Each of the six topics in Someone at the door and Someone on the phone features a short film. These films have been scripted specifically for the project, and involve actors. The two central characters are a married Indian couple, who have recently moved to the UK, and who are getting used to life here. Each film focuses on them in a specific scenario, such as dealing with a meter reader who arrives at their flat, or dealing with unwanted cold calls on the telephone. ESOL learners should be able to relate to the experiences of the couple.

The learner materials and teacher notes contain activities for use before, during and after watching the films. They enable the learners to notice, learn and use some of the functional language featured in the films.

Something in the post, uses semi-authentic material of the kinds that learners may receive in their home, and helps them to understand these and know what action is needed.

Most topics provide approximately 60 minutes of classroom time. Units 1 and 2 can last longer if teachers choose to use the transcripts, for example by getting the learners to act out sections of the dialogues.

Unit 2 Someone on the phone: overview

The unit provides at least 6 hours of classroom time, and covers 6 topics. Each topic features a short film, commissioned by the British Council for the ESOL Nexus project, and filmed with professional actors. The films aim to show real-life situations in which ESOL learners may find themselves, and the accompanying classroom and self-study materials aim to give learners the language they need to deal with a range of household situations.

The 6 topics of Someone on the phone are called Cold call, Wrong number, An emergency, Getting a plumber, Changing an appointment and The teacher's phone call and can be used in any order.

Changing an appointment – teacher's notes

Time:

Approximately 2 hours. Timings are flexible and it could take considerably longer than this.

Aims

To enable learners to handle conversations concerned with making or changing appointments

To enable learners to write an email concerned with making or changing appointments

Objectives

Learners will:

- understand the gist and detail of the film
- learn and speak using some vocabulary from the film
- practise using the Present Continuous tense to speak about future arrangements
- practise reading and writing emails concerning future arrangements

Preparation

- You will need: An interactive whiteboard or data projector to show the film 'Changing an appointment' or computers for each learner/pair of learners, with headphones or audio speakers.
- Related self-access activities for learners can be found at:
<http://esol.britishcouncil.org/english-my-home/changing-appointment>
- Learner handouts (pages 13 - 18) Prepare cut up versions of page 17 for each pair.
- If internet access/computers are not available, you will need to prepare your own audio recordings using the transcripts provided (Pages 19 – 20)
- 'Changing an appointment' Powerpoint which contains links to the interactive games.

A note about interactive whiteboards (IWBs):

Interactive activities are available to support this resource. We have provided links to each individual activity in the teachers' notes (these activities are also available to learners as self-access items). On some interactive whiteboards (not all), the activities will be fully functional (i.e. you will be able to touch the screen to drag and drop, and so on). Links for interactive whiteboards appear in boxes throughout the resource. As part of your preparation before the session you may wish to bookmark the activities you plan to use.

Suggested ProcedureLead-in (Powerpoint slides 1 - 4)

- Write the following jumbled questions on the board, or show Powerpoint slide 1:

1. television your programme? favourite What's
2. like Do sport watching on you television?
3. films like? of do What you kind
4. like Do dentist? to going you the

Ask learners in pairs or groups to work out what the questions are, first orally, then to try to write them down. (Mini-whiteboards would be ideal for this.) Monitor to find out where learners are having problems.

- Write the questions on the board, or show slide 2, and allow learners time to compare their versions. Monitor to check learners have written the questions correctly. Check all learners can understand and pronounce 'favourite'. Also check they understand 'What kind of' by eliciting examples of different kinds of films. You could also elicit other 'What kind of...' questions, e.g. 'What kind of music do you like?'
- Rub out most of the words in the questions, or show slide 3, and get learners to clean their mini-whiteboards or cover where they have written the questions. Re-elicite and drill the questions. Then tell learners to practise saying them to each other.
- Ask learners to discuss the 4 questions in pairs. Monitor, and note down any common errors.
- In feedback, write errors on the board and encourage learners to correct them in pairs or groups. Also briefly elicit types of films learners like, and try to introduce the term 'Bollywood'. Elicit types of sport learners like, and try to introduce 'cricket'. You can use the pictures on slide 4 to reinforce understanding.

First viewing: gist listening task (slide 5)

- Tell learners they are going to watch a film about two people called Arjun and Sunita. If they have seen other films in the series ask them what they can remember about Arjun and Sunita. If they haven't seen any of the other films, tell them that Arjun is Sunita's husband and they have a six year old son called Deepak.
- Write the following four gist questions on the board or show slide 5. Tell learners they are going to watch the film and answer the questions.
 1. What does Arjun want to watch on TV? When?
 2. What does Sunita want to watch on TV? When?
 3. Who rings? Why?
 4. Why are Arjun and Sunita unhappy at the end?

Someone on the phone – Changing an appointment

- After watching, put learners in pairs or groups to discuss the questions for a couple of minutes. Monitor to gauge how much they have understood.

Answers:

1. He wants to watch cricket on Wednesday morning.
2. She wants to watch a Bollywood film on Wednesday afternoon.
3. The dentist's receptionist rings. She wants to change their appointment because the dentist is ill.
4. Because they will miss their TV programmes.

Task 1: Understanding the details (slides 6, 7 and 8)

- Give out Handout 1 and ask learners to look at Task 1 and/or show slide 6. Tell them to read the statements in pairs, and try to decide if the statements are true or false. Reassure them that they will see the film again if they can't remember or didn't understand.
- Don't feed back on this task, but play the film again and ask learners to confirm or change their answers.
- When the film is finished get them to check again briefly in their pairs or groups.
- You can feedback on this task using slide 7 if you wish. Where the statements are false elicit the reasons why they are false.
- Alternatively, on slide 8, click on the link for an interactive version of the task. You could encourage learners to come to the computer or board to do or review the correct answers.

<http://gamedata.bcdev.org.uk/p/MTYxODg=>

Task 2: Vocabulary from the film (slides 9, 10, 11 and 12)

- Write the following words on the board, or show slide 9.
mend(ing), check-up, Bollywood, cricket, idiot, unfortunately,
rearrange, lie, rubbish, perfect
- Ask learners to discuss in groups if they heard the words used in the film, who used them and how.
- Monitor the learners' discussions to find out how much knowledge they have, but you don't need to feedback on this task.

Someone on the phone – Changing an appointment

- Give out Handout 2 and/or show slide 10. Ask learners to complete Task 2 in pairs. If learners have good reading and dictionary skills you could give them an English – English dictionary to help. Early finishers could put the paper away and practise spelling the words.
- Elicit feedback. Check all learners understand the words, and drill the words to practise pronunciation and word stress. You can use slide 11 for this or, alternatively slide 12 which shows a link to an interactive version of the activity which can be used to review the correct answers.

<http://gamedata.bcdev.org.uk/p/MTYxNzE=>

Task 3: Practise using the words (slide 13)

- Now tell learners to focus on Task 3 or show slide 13.
- Set up learners in pairs to ask and answer the questions. Encourage them to answer with sentences, not single words. You could get early finishers to write some of their answers.

Task 4: Language focus: Revise Present Continuous for actions happening now (Slides 14,15, 16, 17 and 18)

- Give out Handout 3 (folded, so that learners can only see the pictures at the top) or preferably show slide 14, and ask learners to look at the pictures.
- Put learners in pairs and tell learners to attempt to describe what is happening in each picture. Monitor to see if any are using the Present Continuous correctly. If they aren't, stop the activity and focus on the language e.g. Sunita is dancing.
- During the language focus, elicit and drill one example in the singular and one in the plural. Re-elicite them and write on the board (you could get them to attempt to write them on mini-whiteboards first) and focus on meaning and form:
 - meaning: Ask: 'Is the sentence about just now or every day?' Check learners understand that the sentence is about now, not every day. You could ask if learners know the name of the tense, and if necessary you could contrast it with Present Simple, for example by asking learners the difference between:
 - Arjun reads the TV guide every day.
 - Arjun is reading the TV guide.
 - form: Ask 'How do we make this tense?' Highlight that the tense has two parts: is/are (verb 'to be'), and -ing on the verb.

Someone on the phone – Changing an appointment

- Then tell learners to attempt the task again orally in pairs, using the examples you wrote on the board as a guide. Note any errors with the language while monitoring and deal with these in feedback.
- Ask the learners to do the matching task (Task 4 Q1 to 6) as reinforcement (slide 15).
- Then continue to the second part of this task (Q7 to 12 - writing sentences for new pictures). You could display these new images on slide 16 as learners complete the speaking and writing tasks. You may need to supply additional language like 'hiding behind the sofa', 'waving' and 'silly glasses' etc. These images are taken from the other 'English in my home' films.
- You could teach/revise the question form at this point: What is Arjun/he doing? What are Arjun and Sunita/they doing?
- Elicit feedback and focus on common errors. (slide 17)
- Use slide 18 for a link to an interactive activity which will help learners further consolidate important sentences from Task 4.

<http://gamedata.bcdev.org.uk/p/MTYyMDc>

Task 5: Different meanings of the Present Continuous (Slides 19, 20 and 21)

- Give out handout 4 and tell learners to look at Task 5, or show slide 19. Ask learners to look at the sentences and say what is the same about all of them. (They all contain examples of the Present Continuous.) Then get them to underline the Present Continuous tense in each sentence. Do one example with them to check understanding. Make sure they underline both parts of the verb (am/is/are and the verb with -ing). Monitor to check learners can identify the tense.
- Elicit feedback. You could show slide 20 for this. Then ask: 'Are all the sentences about the present/now?' Elicit that some of them are about the future. Then tell learners to do the second part of the task – identify which sentences are about now, and which are about the future, and write P for present and F for future. Do one example to demonstrate the task.
- In feedback check that all learners understand:
 - that the Present Continuous is sometimes used to talk about the future.
 - we often use it when we can't keep an appointment because we have another (fixed) arrangement/appointment.
- Click on the link on slide 21 for an interactive version of this activity. Learners group which sentences talk about the present (now) and which sentences talk about the future.

<http://gamedata.bcdev.org.uk/p/MTYyMDk=>

Task 6: Practise using Present Continuous for the future (Slides 22, 23 and 24)

- Now tell learners to look at Task 6. Alternatively show slide 22. Give learners time to read the sentences. Then put learners in pairs and get them to practise the dialogues: Learner A reads the left hand column, learner B replies from the right hand column, putting the verb in the Present Continuous tense. Demonstrate the task first with one or two pairs of strong learners.
- Early finishers can improvise more dialogues, and/or write the replies on the handout.
- After checking answers get learners to cover the right hand column on the handout (or use slide 23) and practise the dialogues again, this time remembering or improvising the whole answer.
- For an interactive version of this task, click on the link on slide 24. Learners type in the correct form of the present continuous to make sentences which talk about the future. N.B. When playing this game, make sure to tell learners to use the contracted forms where possible e.g. 'I'm' rather than 'I am'.

<http://gamedata.bcdev.org.uk/p/MTYxODk=>

Tasks 7 and 8: Match the emails and answer the questions (Slides 25, 26 and 27)

- Tell learners that Sunita switched on her computer today and found three emails. Give out Handout 5, folded down the middle, so that learners can only see the emails on the left. Alternatively show slide 25. Ask learners to read the emails very quickly and discuss with their partner who the emails are from. You could give a 1 minute time limit for this, to encourage learners to read for gist.
- Elicit the answers. (Email 1 is from the dentist's surgery, 2 is from Sunita's friend, 3 is from Deepak's teacher) Then tell learners to unfold the paper and match the emails with Sunita's replies. Check answers with a partner. To make this easier you could photocopy and cut up one set of emails and replies for each pair of learners. You can use Slide 26 for feedback.

Answers: 1 – c, 2 – a, 3 – b

- Give out handout 6 and ask learners to read the emails again and answer the questions. Accept brief answers to questions 1 – 4, but encourage them to answer questions 5 – 7 using full sentences with the Present Continuous. You can use slide 27 during feedback.

Task 9: Write an email (slide 28)

- Ask learners what is the same about all the replies in Task 7. (Sunita has to say no, she has another appointment/arrangement). Also ask learners how Sunita suggests a different day in her reply to Maria. (How about next Saturday?) Get learners to practise saying this and check they understand suggest.
- Tell learners to look at Task 9. Ask them to read the instructions and the email from Marina. (Slide 28) Check they understand the task. Ask:
 - Who are you going to write to? Marina
 - Can you go to lunch on Sunday? No
- Then elicit possible reasons why they can't go, trying to encourage them to use reasons that lend themselves to Present Continuous, i.e. fixed arrangements with other people.
- Tell learners to write the email, individually or in pairs. You could get them to do a draft version on mini-whiteboards before getting them to write on the paper.
- Then encourage them to show their writing to another learner to check.

Cooler

- Put the learners into groups of 4. Tell they must use all the vocabulary from Task 2 to write a short story.
- Monitor and provide feedback when necessary. Encourage the learners to use the vocabulary items in the same way as in Task 2. e.g. lie as in tell a lie rather than lie down.
- One learner from each group reads their story aloud.
- Carry out a class vote to decide which is the best story. You could carry out an online survey using a tool like <https://www.surveymonkey.com/> which you can use for free. You'll need to create a simple survey yourself and then email it to your learners to complete. You can tell them to complete the survey for homework and you'll share the results at the start of next lesson.

Someone on the phone – Changing an appointment

Transcript

- Arjun: Oh, this is great. Monday morning, and I don't have to go to work all week.
- Sunita: Yes, we can spend some time together... and maybe you can do some jobs around the flat... like, er, mending things? Like mending... this thing over here. It's broken, see?
- Arjun: Oh! What day this week are we going to the dentist's for a check-up? Is it Thursday or Friday?
- Sunita: It's today.
- Arjun: Oh really? That's OK. Look, on Wednesday, I have to get up early.
- Sunita: Why?
- Arjun: Cricket on TV. India against Pakistan. Look!
- Sunita: Oh and in the afternoon there's '3 Idiots'.
- Arjun: Uh?
- Sunita: The Bollywood film. I really want to see that. You know all this Bollywood dancing...
- Arjun: OK, well, I'll watch the TV in the morning, the cricket, and then in the afternoon, you can have your TV for your idiots.
- Sunita: '3 Idiots'. Maybe you should watch it too. You might learn something!
- Telephone rings. Hello?
- Receptionist: Is this Mrs Chowdry?
- Sunita: Speaking.
- Receptionist: Hello, this is Giston Dental Centre.
- Sunita: Oh, yes, hello. My husband and I are coming in for our appointments later today.
- Receptionist: Well that's why I'm ringing. Unfortunately, the dentist is ill today.
- Sunita: Oh dear, I'm so sorry to hear that.
- Receptionist: So, we need to rearrange your appointment.
- Sunita: Re... arrange?
- Receptionist: Yeah, fix another time.
- Sunita: OK. Like, change the appointment?
- Receptionist: Exactly. Right, we've got some free appointments on Wednesday.
- Sunita: Uh-huh.
- Receptionist: Now, starting with Mr Chowdry. We could see him on Wednesday at 11.
- Sunita: Wednesday at 11, with the same dentist?
- Receptionist: Yes.

Someone on the phone – Changing an appointment

- Sunita: OK. That sounds great. Sorry, just, I'm just checking with my husband. Ah no, sorry. I think he's having a haircut or something.
- Receptionist: OK, no problem. What about earlier? 10.30?
- Sunita: 10.30 on Wednesday. What?
- Arjun: The cricket!
- Sunita: No! A dentist's appointment is more important.
- Arjun: I can't do 10.30.
- Sunita: It's only a game!
- Receptionist: Hello?
- Arjun: Tell them I'm busy, tell them I'm.... working or something at 10.30!
- Receptionist: Hello?
- Sunita: Sorry, my husband says 10.30 on Wednesday is fine.
- Arjun: Oh, what?!
- Sunita: Sorry, could you hold on one moment please? I'm not going to lie to them for you. If you want to tell them rubbish, you tell them yourself!
- Arjun: My darling, what time is that film on Wednesday that you want to watch?
- Sunita: Two o'clock. Until half past four.
- Arjun: Hello, Arjun Chowdry speaking.
- Receptionist: Hello Mr Chowdry.
- Arjun: Now, we need to change my wife's appointment too, don't we?
- Receptionist: That's right. When's good for her?
- Arjun: Well the best time for her will be Wednesday. Between two o'clock and... four thirty? Can you see her then?
- Receptionist: Three o'clock?
- Arjun: Three o'clock.
- Sunita: No! My film!
- Arjun: She says that's perfect.
- Receptionist: Great. So we'll see you both on Wednesday then. Thank you very much. Goodbye.
- Arjun: Thank you. Bye. It's only a film!
