Introduction

Study skills aims to give beginner ESOL learners an introduction to study skills and language learning techniques, particularly time management, learning vocabulary and practising spelling. The activities are ideal for the beginning of a learning programme and the low level of some of the activities reflects this. The lessons can of course be taught at any time, in which case some of the more basic activities could be omitted.

This teacher's pack consists of teacher's notes and classroom resources.

The pack provides 9-12 hours of learning through a series of 5 90-minute lessons, which can each be used as a standalone, and extension activities which give learners further practice and consolidation. Lesson 4 includes a bank of spelling and vocabulary activities which can be used at any time with any topic.

The resource is suitable for community ESOL and ESOL delivered in adult learning or FE. Internet access and projection equipment is not needed, although a data projector would be an advantage.

Level: Entry 1 / National 2 in Scotland / CEFR A1

The materials have been differentiated so that they are accessible to pre-Entry 1 learners through to emerging E2 learners.

Overview

The five lessons in Study skills are:

Lesson 1: Things you need for your English class introduces the names of stationery items and gives learners the opportunity to practise saying what they have and haven't got.

Lesson 2: What is a good language learner? introduces common language learning techniques and gives learners the opportunity to reflect on and discuss how they have learnt other languages and what they can do to learn English most effectively.

Lesson 3: Organising your time introduces time management and gives learners practice in reading a diary and organising their own time with a diary.

Lesson 4: Learning new words deals with strategies for learning new words and practising spelling, giving learners the opportunity to share techniques they already use and try new ones.

Lesson 5: Introduction to reading strategies introduces the names of different text types and the different ways we read different texts and encourages learners to start reading for pleasure.

Lesson 1: Things you need in your English class

Introduction

This lesson introduces the names of stationery items and gives learners the opportunity to practise saying what they have and haven't got and asking to borrow different items. There is also a detailed listening practice where learners identify the items different teachers say are needed for their classes. An extension task gives suggestions for how you could introduce and practise other classroom language which your learners will need to understand and use.

Time: Approximately 90 minutes. Timings are flexible and teachers can cut activities and add extension activities as required.

Aims

- To introduce the names of stationery items.
- To build learners' confidence in listening for detail.
- To introduce and practise have got / haven't got.
- To develop learners' ability to take part in common classroom interactions such as asking to borrow stationery items.

Objectives

All learners will be able to:

- Name common stationery items such as pen, pencil etc.
- Listen for detail using key words to extract specific information.
- Use have got and haven't got.
- Understand and use the question 'Can I use your ...?'

Some learners may be able to:

- Write the names for common stationery items.
- Listen to and understand more complicated teacher instructions.

Preparation

You will need:

- Realia: a pen, pencil, rubber, sharpener, paper, notebook, ruler, file (cardboard document wallet) and a folder (ring binder), in a bag, for the Warmer and Activities 1 and 4 and Extension 1 plus multiples of some of these items for Activity 6.
- Worksheet 1 – large labels: 1 copy for the group, cut up with one label per learner or pair for Activity 1.
- Sticky tape or sticky tack for Activity 1.
- Worksheet 2 – stationery items literacy work: 1 copy per learner for Activity 2.
- Worksheet 3 – table for listening task: 1 copy per learner for Activity 3.
- Audios 1, 2 & 3 – teachers saying what learners need for their classes for Activity 3.
- Worksheet 4 – information gap activity: 1 copy per pair for Activity 4, cut in half.
- Worksheet 5 – lists for Activity 6: 1 list per learner (there are 10 on each sheet).

For the extension / homework tasks:

- Worksheet 6 – differentiated writing frames: 1 copy of 1 frame per learner for Extension 2, depending on which task they are doing.
- Worksheet 7 – classroom instructions template for Extension 3
- Worksheet 8 – Wordsearch template: 1 per learner for the Homework.

Procedure

Warmer (5 mins)

- Show the learners the bag of realia and elicit 'bag'.
- Explain that in the bag are things the learners need for class and ask them to say what they think is in it.
- If they predict correctly, get that item out and put it on the table.

Activity 1: Names of stationery items – speaking (10 mins)

- Model and drill the names of the items on the table and any still in the bag.
- Model and drill the question and answer: 'What is it?' 'It's a ...' and ask individuals what the items are.
- Pass the items round the class, including the bag, demonstrating that learners need to ask what the item is as they pass it on to the next learner.

Differentiation:

- Drill all items chorally then ask stronger learners to give the names of the items individually.

Activity 2: Names of stationery items - writing (15 mins)

- Give each learner or pair a label from Worksheet 1 and ask them to attach it to the correct item with sticky tape or sticky tack.
- Hand out Worksheet 2 for learners to complete and check with a partner.
- Check answers as a class.

Differentiation:

- Encourage beginner readers and writers to use the labelled realia to help them.
- Early finishers can practise spelling the items using Look Say Cover Write Check. This method is looked at in detail in Lesson 4 where a blank table is provided.

Activity 3: Listening (10 mins)

- Hand out Worksheet 3. Tell the learners that they are going to listen to three teachers. They need to tick the items that the teacher says the learners need to bring to class.
- Play the beginning of Audio 1, pausing after the first item to show the learners that they need to tick the box next to the pen in the first column.
- Play the rest of Audio 1 and then Audios 2 & 3 for the learners to fill in the table.
- Check answers in pairs and as a class.

Differentiation:

- Stretch stronger learners with follow-on questions such as: 'Which teacher doesn't want the learners to use a pencil?' (tr 1); 'What colour pen does teacher 3 ask for?'; (blue or black).

Activity 4: Grammar presentation – I've got / I haven't got (15 mins)

- Give each learner one of the stationery items listed in 'realia'. If the class is larger than eight, ask them to place their own pen / pencil etc. on the table in front of them.

- Hold up your own pen and model 'I've got a pen' using finger highlighting¹ to illustrate how 'I have' combines to 'I've'.
- Ask learners to tell their partners what they've got, holding up their items.
- Model 'I haven't got a pencil' showing the absence of pencil in front of you and again using finger highlighting to focus on the sentence construction.
- Ask learners to tell their partners what they haven't got.
- Ask a stronger learner 'Have you got a ...?' with one item they have got and one item they haven't got. Drill their answers 'Yes, I have' and 'No, I haven't' with the class.
- Model and drill the question 'Have you got a ...?'
- Write examples of the positive, negative and question forms for learners to make a record of in their notebooks.

Differentiation:

- Give the paper to a stronger learner to say 'I've got some paper' and 'I haven't got any paper'.
- Ask stronger writers to write their own example sentences and weaker writers to copy your sentences. Beginner writers could copy the positive example only.

Activity 5: Grammar practice – I've got / I haven't got (15 mins)

- Set up a cross-class Q & A, still using the items the learners have on the table in front of them: Ask one learner, 'Have you got a ...?' and they answer using 'Yes, I have' or 'No, I haven't' as appropriate. They then ask another learner who answers and then asks another learner and so on until all learners have asked and answered a question.
- Put learners in pairs and hand out Worksheet 4, making sure the learners don't look at their partner's sheet.
- Demonstrate the activity with a strong learner: work through the first few items on Worksheet 2 asking 'Have you got a ...?' and ticking the image according to whether the learner answers 'Yes, I have' or 'No, I haven't' depending on what they have in the picture of a bag on their sheet.

Differentiation:

- Stronger learners could feed back what their partner has using 'She's got...' and 'She hasn't got...'

Activity 6 – Asking to borrow something' (15 mins)

- Mime the action of writing in pencil and making a mistake, but not having a rubber.
- Ask a learner who hasn't got a rubber 'Can I use your rubber, please?' indicating that you are waiting for a response and supplying 'Sorry, I haven't got a rubber' if necessary.

¹ Finger highlighting: Hold up your left hand and use your right hand to point to a different finger for every word in the sentence you are practising.

- Ask a learner who has got a rubber 'Can I use your rubber, please?' indicating that you are waiting for a response and supplying 'Yes, here you are' if necessary.
- Handout a list from Worksheet 5 and three realia items to each learner, making sure the list items and realia items are different. Explain / demonstrate that they need to collect all the items from the list by standing up, moving around and asking other learners 'Can I use your...?'
- After most of the learners have got most of their items ask them to feedback to a partner and the class what they've got and what they haven't got.

Cooler – Memory game (5 mins)

- Start the game by saying 'I've got a pen.'
- The first learner needs to say 'I've got a pen and a ...' adding an item of their own.
- Go round the group, each learner repeating all the previous items and adding one of their own.

Extension 1 – Memory game

- Play 'Kim's game':
- Put some or all of the realia items on the table in front of you.
- Allow the learners one minute to memorise what is there.
- Cover the items and take one away while they are hidden.
- Uncover the items and learners need to see which one is missing.
- Alternative: When you cover the items, pairs or teams need to write a list of the items. They could get a point for each item correctly listed and for an extra challenge you could stipulate that the spelling needs to be correct.

Extension 2 – Writing a shopping list / list of items they have in their bag

- Ask learners to decide what items they need to buy for their English class and write a shopping list using Writing frame 1 on Worksheet 6 if necessary.
- If they already have all the items they need, they could write a list of everything they have in their bag using Writing frame 2 on Worksheet 6.

Extension 3 – Other classroom language

- Make a list of instructions you commonly use in your lessons, such as Work with a partner; look at the board; stand up; turn over the sheet.
- If appropriate, teach them by giving the instruction and asking the learners to respond, miming the activity yourself if necessary.
- Use the template on Worksheet 7 to create a handout where learners match the beginnings and endings of the instructions.

Homework

- Ask the learners to use the words from today's lesson to create a wordsearch using the template on Worksheet 8. Then swap with a partner to complete.

Audio transcriptAudio 1

Teacher: Good afternoon everybody. Now, can I just check you've got what you need for today's lesson? Have you all got a pen and some paper? That's everything!

Learner: Can I use a pencil?

Teacher: No, a pencil isn't OK. It must be a pen. Oh yes, and you need your folders as well.

Audio 2

There are lots of things you need in my class. First something to write with – a pen is OK and you need a pencil as well. Don't forget a rubber and a sharpener. You also need some paper and a file to keep your paper in. That's it!

Audio 3

In my class you need a pen and a pencil. The pen must be blue or black. Bring a small notebook for new words and some paper for classwork. Oh, and you also need a ruler for underlining headings.

Lesson 2: What is a good language learner?

Introduction

This lesson introduces strategies for language learning. Learners listen to and read examples of what other learners do and discuss and reflect on what they do and how useful the strategies are. There is also a grammar focus on using adverbs of frequency and the present simple to describe regular activities.

Time: Approximately 90 minutes. Timings are flexible and teachers can cut activities and add extension activities as required.

Aims

- To raise awareness of language learning strategies.
- For learners to identify and reflect on their own language learning strategies.
- To practise using the present simple to talk about regular activities.
- To develop learners' ability to use adverbs of frequency when discussing regular activities.

Objectives

All learners will be able to:

- Identify their own language learning strategies and those they want to develop.
- Listen to others describing language learning strategies and understand the gist and key details.
- Use the present simple to describe everyday activities and ask other learners about their language learning strategies.
- Use adverbs of frequency using the correct word order.

Some learners may be able to:

- Report back on a partner's language learning strategies using the present simple 3rd person.

Preparation

You will need:

- Audio for Activity 1 (learner 1 lesson 2) (learner 2 lesson 2)
- Worksheet 1 – Listening: 1 per pair for Activity 1.
- Worksheets 2-3 – Language learning strategies: 1 set of cards per pair for Activity 2 plus one set enlarged for group feedback. There are three blank cards for you to add any other helpful or unhelpful strategies you would like to include in the activity.
- Worksheet 4 – Present simple sentences to reorder: 1 per learner for Activity 3, or 1 set per pair of the sentences cut into words.
- Worksheet 5 – Language learning questionnaire: 1 per learner for Activity 4 and Extension 1. There are spaces for you to add other strategies you'd like your learners to ask about.

What is a good language learner?

Warmer – Discussion about experiences of learning other languages (10 mins)

- Tell the class any other languages you speak and model and drill the question and answer: 'What languages do you speak?' and 'I speak...'
- Ask learners to find out the languages their partners speak and feedback to the group.

Activity 1 – Listening (15 mins)

- Tell the learners they are going to hear two people talking about learning a different language and they need to listen and decide who has problems learning.
- Play the audio and give pairs time to discuss before feeding back to the class. (Answer: Learner 2 has problems).
- Hand out Worksheet 1 and ask learners to decide in pairs which learner does which activity and tick the correct boxes. Play the audio again if necessary.
- Check answers as a class.

Differentiation:

- After the activity, hand out the transcript and ask stronger learners to find and circle the adverbs of frequency and weaker learners the verbs.

Activity 2 – Ranking language learning strategies (20 mins)

- Give pairs the cards from Worksheet 2 and ask them to rank them according to how helpful they are. Suggest they use a diamond formation with one very helpful at the top, two helpful, three not helpful or unhelpful in the middle, 2 not very helpful and one very unhelpful at the bottom. You could illustrate this with a picture of a diamond and star ranking system on the board.
- Invite learners to look at how other pairs ranked the strategies and discuss why.

- As a class use the enlarged cards to facilitate a whole group discussion, emphasising that there is no right or wrong answer.

Differentiation:

- Pair learners who share the same language together and allow them to use their L1 to discuss their rationale.

Activity 3: Adverbs of frequency and word order in present simple sentences (20 mins)

- Draw a vertical line on the board with 100% at the top and 0% at the bottom.
- Give an example of something you do every day, e.g. 'I have coffee on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.' Use the question 'How often do I drink coffee?' to elicit 'always'.
- Ask learners where 'always' goes on the line on the board and write it next to 100%.
- Ask what word goes next to 0% (never) and what word can go in the middle (sometimes). With a strong group you could elicit and add other adverbs of frequency.
- Give 6 learners the words 'I always come to every class' with each word on a separate piece of paper and one word per learner. Ask them to line up at the front of the class in the correct order for the sentence.
- Ask learners to formulate a rule for where 'always' goes in the sentence (e.g. 'second' or 'after I' or if your learners are more grammar oriented 'before the verb').
- Hand out Worksheet 4 and ask learners to reorder the sentences and check with a partner and as a class.

Answers:

1. I always do my homework.
2. I never talk in class.
3. I always use my dictionary.
4. I never understand English people.
5. I sometimes play English games on my phone.

Differentiation:

- Weaker readers and writers and kinaesthetic learners would benefit from having the sentences cut up into words for them to reorder.

Activity 4 – Language learning questionnaire (20 mins)

- Hand out Worksheet 5 and ask learners to tick the activities they do and cross the ones they don't.
- Ask the learners to interview their partner and find out what they do and don't do. Demonstrate first with a stronger learner and focus on the two answers 'Yes, I do' and 'No, I don't'. If they answer yes, follow up by asking 'How often?' and demonstrate ticking the second column and writing 'always' or 'sometimes' in the third.

- Use one of the learners' sheets and feedback to the class about that learner's partner, e.g. 'Fardous always comes to class and she never comes late.'
- Put pairs together in groups of four and ask learners to tell the group about their partners.
- As a class, invite volunteers to share information about their partners.

Differentiation:

- Ask stronger writers to write a complete sentence rather than merely ticking: 'Yes, I always do my homework.'
- Ask stronger groups to make negative sentences as well using 'doesn't'.
- Challenge stronger learners to greater accuracy by asking questions focussing on form: 'Do we say she come or she comes?' (she comes) and 'When do we use -s?' (for he/she/it and something happening regularly).
- Stronger groups of four who finish early could write sentences about their partners, for consolidation.

Cooler – Choosing strategies (5 mins)

- Ask learners to highlight or circle the activities on Worksheet 5 which they don't do and choose one which they want to do.
- Ask learners to write this one aim in their notebooks and put a tally next to it every time they try it.

Extension 1 – Numeracy: handling data

- Demonstrate how to keep a tally chart and ask learners to conduct a class survey using Worksheet 5. They need to ask every learner every question and keeping a tally every time someone answers 'yes'.
- Ask learners to present their results as a bar graph or pie chart, or simple report with sentences such as 'In our class three people do exercises in grammar books at home.'
- Learners with stronger numeracy skills could use fractions or percentages in their reports.

Homework 1

- Learners try the strategy they identified and record with a tally every time they try it. In the next lesson they feed back to a partner and the group how many times they tried the strategy and if it's useful.

Homework 2

- If your learners have internet access at home, ask them to try one of the self-access modules available here:
<https://esol.britishcouncil.org/content/learners/grammar-and-vocabulary/beginners>
In the next session they can feed back to a partner and the group what they like about the activity and say if it is useful.

I write new words in a notebook with an example sentence and every week I test myself to see if I can remember what they mean. When I'm on the bus I sometimes play English games on my phone.

Learner 2:

My name's Manuel. Learning English is very difficult. I do exercises in a grammar book every day but I never understand when people talk to me in English. And I can't say what I want. Lesson 3: Organising your time

Introduction

This lesson introduces learners to the idea of time management and setting aside specific time for study. Learners read an example of a learner's diary and talk about her regular commitments, practising asking and answering questions using the present simple. They then fill in a similar timetable for themselves. Times using whole hours and days of the week are also practised and numeracy is embedded through calculating how long different activities take.

Time: Approximately 90 minutes. Timings are flexible and teachers can cut activities and add extension activities as required.

Aims

- To develop learner autonomy in terms of organising time for study.
- To practise reading a diary of regular commitments.
- To develop learner confidence in asking and answering questions about daily routine using the present simple.
- To build confidence in giving the time in whole hours and reading days of the week.

Objectives

All learners will be able to:

- Read a diary and find the days and times of regular activities.
- Tell a partner about their own regular activities.
- Use a diary to plan activities for a week, including study time.
- Read days of the week.
- Give times using whole hours.
- Add and subtract times to work out how long an activity takes.

Some learners might be able to:

- Ask questions about regular activities.
- Spell days of the week.
- Use multiplication to complete simple calculations based on a diary.

PreparationYou will need:

- Worksheet 1 – Time: 1 per learner for the Warmer.
- Worksheet 2 – Days cards: 2 sets per pair for Activity 1 (there are three sets on each sheet).
- Worksheet 3 – Blank page from Leila's diary: 1 per learner for Activity 2.
- Worksheet 4 – Leila's activities images and words: 1 set per learner, cut up, for Activity 2.
- Glue sticks for Activity 2
- Worksheet 5 – Blank diary pages: 1 per learner for Activity 4.

For the extension tasks:Extension 1

Worksheet 6 – Numeracy tasks based on Leila's diary: 1 per learner.

Extension 2

Worksheet 7 – Farhad's diary: 1 per learner.

Organising your time

Warmer – Telling the time review (10 mins)

- Hand out Worksheet 1 and ask learners to match the comments with the digital clocks.
- If learners can tell the time, ask them to match the digital with the analogue clocks.

Activity 1: Days of the week (10 mins)

- Ask the learners what day it is today, tomorrow, the next day and so on until you have elicited all the days.
- If necessary, chant the days chorally and individually and deal with specific pronunciation issues.
- Give pairs one set of days cards from Worksheet 2 and ask them to put them in order, starting with Monday.

Tip: Make the sequencing activity self-checking by numbering the backs of the cards so learners can turn them over to check they got the correct order.

Differentiation:

- Pair weaker learners together and draw round the shapes of the words to help with whole word recognition. Give them fewer cards to work with if appropriate.
- Give weaker pairs a second set of days cards to play Pelmanism².
- Pair stronger learners together and when they finish, ask them to practise spelling the days and then test each other.

Activity 2: Introduction to diaries (15 mins)

- Hand out Worksheet 3 and ask learners what it is (a page from a diary). If possible show the learners your own diary and ask what a diary is for (writing what we do on different days) and if anyone uses a diary or app to organise their time.
- Orally give the class random days and times for them to find on the diary page.
- Introduce Leila and explain that this is a page from her diary.
- Hand out the images and words from Worksheet 4 and explain that these show what she does every week. Ask the learners to match the words and images.
- Hand out the glue sticks and orally give the learners the following information about Leila. They need to listen and stick the correct word card in the correct place in the diary.
 - She goes to her English class on Monday and Thursday from 1 o'clock to 3 o'clock.
 - She goes to work on Wednesday at 6 o'clock in the evening.

² Pelmanism: Learners take it in turns to turn over two cards. If the cards match they keep the cards. If they are different, they turn them face down again. Once all the cards are matched, the winner is the learner with the most matching pairs.

- She takes her children to pre-school on Monday and Thursday at 9 o'clock.
- She picks up her children from pre-school on Monday and Thursday at 4 o'clock.
- She goes shopping on Tuesday at 10 o'clock.
- She goes to the park on Saturday at 2 o'clock.

Activity 3: Asking questions about regular activities (15 mins)

- Ask individuals questions about Leila's week, such as: 'When does she go to her English class?' and 'What does she do at 6 o'clock on Wednesday?'
- Check learners know which preposition to use with times (at) and days (on).
- Ask if we say 'she go' or 'she goes' (she goes).
- Elicit how to ask the question and use finger highlighting to demonstrate the word order in the question and the auxiliary 'does'.
- Ask pairs to practise asking and answering questions about Leila's week.

Differentiation:

- Weaker learners can give short one or two word answers 'Monday' or 'English class' and stronger learners can give their answers in whole sentences.
- Pair learners weak/strong with the stronger learners asking the questions and the weaker learners answering.

Activity 4: Using a diary (15 mins)

- Hand out the blank diary pages from Worksheet 5.
- Ask the learners to add their regular activities to the correct days and times, putting the class times in first as a whole group activity.
- Ask learners to look at their diaries and find the best time for them to do homework and add 'homework' to their diaries.
- Do the same with other self-study activities that learners have identified they would like to do in the previous lesson, such as study online, learn new words, read English books and practise spelling.

Differentiation:

- Beginner writers could use the images and words from Worksheet 4 and stick them onto the days when they do these activities, or you could scribe activities for them to copy into the correct place.

Activity 5 – Talking about regular activities (15 mins)

- Tell the learners some things you do every week.
- Ask if we say 'I go' or 'I goes' (I go).
- Ask pairs to show each other their diary pages and tell a partner what they do on different days and at different times.
- Ask individuals to feed back to the class some examples of what their partner does.

Differentiation:

- Pair stronger learners together and encourage them to ask further questions about the activities, such as 'Where do you go shopping?' or 'How old is your daughter?'

Cooler – (10 mins)

- Ask learners to find the Calendar on their mobile phones and transfer their planned activities into it from Worksheet 5.

Extension 1 – Numeracy tasks based on Leila's diary

- Hand out Worksheet 6 and ask learners to use a completed Leila's diary from Activity 2 to answer the questions. The final three questions involve multiplication to provide extra challenge for learners with stronger numeracy skills.

Answers: 1. 3pm; 2. 4hrs; 3. 7hrs; 4. 14hrs; 5. 4hrs; 6. £28; 7. £8; 8. £21.

Lesson 4: Learning new wordsIntroduction

This lesson allows learners to share strategies they already use for recording, learning and spelling new words. There is a focus on recording new items in a vocabulary book with the opportunity for learners to try different ways of doing this. Learners also learn how to practise spelling using 'Look Say Cover Write Check'. A bank of activities for practising vocabulary and spelling is provided in the additional resources. These can be dipped into in subsequent lessons.

Time: Approximately 90 minutes. Timings are flexible and teachers can cut activities and add extension activities as required.

Aims

- To introduce a range of strategies for learning new words.
- To introduce strategies to learn the spelling of new words.
- To present different ways of recording new vocabulary items in a notebook.

Objectives

All learners will be able to:

- Use a new technique for learning new words.
- Use 'Look Say Cover Write Check' to practise spelling.
- Use different strategies to record new vocabulary items in a notebook.

Some learners may be able to:

- Use different techniques to practise spelling.

PreparationYou will need:

- Mini whiteboards, dry-wipe pens and rubbers: 1 of each per small group / pair for the Warmer.
- Worksheets 1-2 – Pictures and descriptions of vocabulary notebooks: 1 set, cut up, per pair for Activity 2.
- Worksheet 3 – Look Say Cover Write Check table: 1 per learner for Activity 4.
- Coloured pens and highlighters for Activity 4 (optional).

For the extension tasks:Extension 1*Bank of activities and games to practise vocabulary and spelling

Learning new wordsWarmer – Reflection on learning new words (10 mins)

- Ask learners if they think it's easy or difficult to learn new words in English.
- Ask those who think it's easy to walk to one side of the classroom, and those who find it difficult to go to the other.
- Pair learners from each side and ask them to tell each other why they think it's easy or difficult.

Activity 1 – Techniques to learn new words (20 mins)

- Ask the class: 'How do you learn new words?' and note some suggestions on the board.
- Ask learners to discuss other ideas in small groups.
- As a class, ask groups to feed back their ideas, adding them to the list on the board.
- Encourage learners to take a photo of the ideas on their mobiles to refer to and/or take one yourself to use to produce a reference sheet to hand out in the next session.
- Ask learners to come to the board and mark a tally next to techniques they already use.
- Ask learners to choose a new strategy to try out this week, and tell a partner what it is.

Possible answers:

Choose how many and which of the following to suggest yourself depending on the ideas suggested by the group and how many new ideas you feel would be appropriate:

- Record new words somewhere – notebook or voice memo on phone.
- Look at new words again and again.
- Test yourself.
- Ask a friend or family member to test you.
- Think of a sentence using the new word.
- Try to use the new word when talking to people.
- Find something special about the word to help you remember – is it like a word in your language? Is it like another word you know in English?
- Find the word in an English-English dictionary to learn more about it.
- Put the new word somewhere you can see it every day, like the fridge, bathroom mirror or light switch.

Differentiation:

- If everyone in the class has at least one other person who shares their first language, it might be useful to group learners according to language and allow them to use L1 in their discussion.
- Group learners so that each group has a mix of experienced and new language learners.

Activity 2: Vocabulary notebook introduction (15 mins)

- Circle on the board the idea about recording new words.
- If learners have put a tally next to this idea, ask them to share with the class how they do this, showing their notebooks if possible.
- Put the learners into pairs and hand out the cards from Worksheets 1-2.

Study Skills – Teacher's pack

- Ask the learners to match the descriptions of different ways of recording new words with the pictures of pages from a vocabulary book.
- Check answers as a class and deal with any questions.

Tip: Many teachers and learners feel it is useful to order their notebooks alphabetically. Whilst it would be foolish to discourage learners from doing something they find useful, it is hard to see what advantage such a book would have over a good quality simple English-English dictionary. Research suggests that categorising and sorting items as suggested here does far more to aid retention than alphabetised lists.

Activity 3 – Vocabulary notebook practice (15 mins)

- Ask the learners to choose words from today's or a previous session and record them in their notebooks, using ideas suggested in Activity 2.
- Ask learners to share with a partner how they chose to record the different words.

Activity 4 – Practising spelling with Look Say Cover Write Check (20 mins)

- Ask learners to discuss in small groups how they practise spelling.
- Hand out Worksheet 3 and ask the learners to choose ten words they'd like to practise spelling and write them in the ten boxes across the top of the sheet. Make sure they are spelt correctly.
- Write Look on the board and demonstrate how learners can help themselves remember what a word looks like by drawing around the shape of it, writing the different syllables in different colours, or highlighting the different syllables and highlighting words within words, common spelling patterns or tricky letters. Ask them to do the same with their first word.
- Write Say on the board and ask the learners to say their first word.
- Write Cover on the board and demonstrate hiding the word with a hand.
- Ask the learners to close their eyes and see if they can still see the word in their heads. Emphasise that it is important to look at the word again if they can't.
- Write Write on the board and ask learners to write the word in the box below but only if they can still see it in their heads. If they can't see it they should look at it again.
- Write Check on the board and ask learners to check if they spelt it correctly. Monitor closely at this stage as often learners don't notice an error and practise the incorrect spelling.
- Explain that the next row of boxes is to practise the words the following day, and the row underneath is to practice in a week's time. Ask the learners to do the same with the other words in their table.

Differentiation:

- Ask weaker learners to practise only five words.
- Spelling can be particularly problematic for learners with SpLD such as dyslexia. A multi-sensory approach as described here can be very useful. You could make the activity more tactile by asking them to make the words with letter tiles or wooden letters, or tracing the words in cornflour, or using a finger on a tablet computer if you have one.

Cooler – Spelling test (10 mins)

- Ask pairs to test each other on the spellings practised in Activity 4.

Extension 1 – Vocabulary and spelling practice activities

- Choose activities from the bank provided to practise vocabulary and spelling further.

Extension 2 – Strategies for attempting to spell an unknown word

- Ask the class what they do if they are writing and want to write a word they don't know how to spell.
- Collate their suggestions into a mindmap and ask them to photograph it with their mobile phones for a record, and use it yourself to produce a reference sheet to give the learners in the next session.

Possible suggestions are:

- Ask a friend or the teacher.
- Look up the word in a dictionary.
- Type the word into an internet search engine (when these say 'Did you mean...?' they do take into account common spelling errors).
- Try writing the word in different ways and seeing which looks the best.
- Try thinking of a similar word which you do know how to spell.

Extension 3 – Mnemonics

- Ask if anyone can spell 'because' and write the correct spelling on the board.
- Show how one way of remembering this tricky word is to make a sentence with one word beginning with every letter of the word, and write: big elephants can always understand small elephants.
- Ask the class to suggest another tricky word and make a mnemonic together.
- Put learners into pairs or small groups and ask them to make a mnemonic for another tricky word and share it with a group. They could make posters of their mnemonics to display in the classroom.

Homework 1

- Give learners a list of words to practise spelling using Look Say Cover Write Check between now and next lesson, and give them a spelling test next lesson.

Homework 2

- Ask the learners to try one of the online self-access modules available here:
<https://esol.britishcouncil.org/content/learners/grammar-and-vocabulary/beginners> and feedback if they found it useful for learning new words and practising spelling.

Additional resourcesBank of activities to practise new vocabulary and spelling*Activities to use with vocab books:

- Learners test themselves by hiding the picture / translation and trying to remember the word, or by hiding the word and trying to remember the meaning, oral or written.
- Pairs test each other, as above, but one learner is looking at the answer and can help their partner.
- Beginner writers hide the word, look at the picture, try to make the word with letter tiles and check with the word in their books.
- Beginner writers trace the words in their notebooks with a pen with the lid on, and copy onto handwriting paper.
- The teacher says a word and learners race to find it in their notebooks.
- The teacher describes a word for learners to race to find in their notebooks, e.g. 'a word beginning with...'
- The teacher gives a vocabulary test on a page of the notebook.
- Learners reclassify words from their notebooks, e.g. make a new page for words featuring -tion and go through their books to find words to add to it.
- Learners reorganise pages from their books, e.g. convert lists into mind maps.

Activities to practise vocabulary and spelling:

- Anagrams (making words from jumbled letters): On the board for pairs to unscramble; cut up on pieces of card on different tables for learners to circulate and try and solve; on large, separate pieces of paper, one for each learner so they can line up in the correct order to spell the word.
- Labelling: Learners label objects, pictures, the classroom, their bodies...
- Matching: Words and pictures, words and definitions, words and opposites, collocations, beginnings and endings of words etc.
- Mingling: Learners move around the class to find someone with, e.g. the same word card as them by describing but not saying the word, or the word that matches their picture, or the word which is the opposite of their word, etc.
- Sorting: Learners sort sets of word cards according to groupings such as topic, words beginning / ending with the same letter, words that rhyme etc.
- Substitution drills: Teacher says a sentence, for example. 'I come to college by car.' and learners take it in turns to repeat the sentence substituting one of the words with another one, e.g. 'I come to college by bus.'
- Wordsearches
- Crosswords

Vocab / spelling games

- 'Back to the board': Split the class into teams. The first member of the first team comes to the front of the class and sits with their back to the board. Write a word on the board for their team to describe without saying the word. If the learner at the front gets the word, their team gets a point. Continue with the next learner from the next team and so on.
- Guess the word: One learner comes to the front of the class and describes or mimes a word. The learner who guesses the word has the next turn.
- Smiley face (hangman): Draw a line of dashes on the board with a dash for each letter of a word. Teams take it in turns to suggest a letter. If the letter is in the word, write it on the dash, if not, add to the team's smiley face, in the order: face, eye, eye, nose, mouth, ear, ear, hair, hair, hair. If their face is drawn before the word is guessed, that team is out. The winning team is the first to guess the word.
- 'Hit the board': Write some words or stick a picture set to the board. Learners stand in two columns facing the board. You say one of the words and the two students at the front of each line race to be the first to find the picture / word and hit it to get a point for their team. They then move to the back of the line and you repeat with the next two, and so on.
- Kim's game: Show the class some objects and give them a minute to memorise what there is. Cover the objects and take one away. Uncover the objects and award a point to the learner / team who correctly identifies what's missing.
- Last person standing: Learners stand in a circle and take turns to say words connected to a topic. If they say something unconnected, or can't think of anything, they sit down. The game carries on until only one person, the winner, is left standing.
- Listing games: Example: 'I went to the supermarket and I bought...' Learners go round naming an item for each letter of the alphabet, each time naming all the previous items as well.
- 'Newspaper Bash' (to be used with caution): Learners stand in a circle with a picture which they hold in front of them. You say the word represented by one of the pictures and the learner who is holding that picture then says the word represented by another learner's picture and so on. If any learner is too slow tap them lightly on the shoulder with a rolled up piece of paper and that learner then takes the rolled-up paper and the role of the 'basher'.
- Seat-swapping game: Learners sit in a circle with the teacher in the middle. The teacher gives a criterion and all the learners this applies to must swap places, e.g. 'everyone wearing jeans'. While they are swapping, the teacher takes a seat in the circle meaning one learner is left in the middle and gives the next instruction.

Lesson 5: Introduction to reading strategies

This lesson introduces the idea of using different techniques to read different types of text. Learners learn the names of different text types and answer questions on three different types of text to see the difference between skimming, scanning and detailed reading. Homework and extension activities provide some suggestions for encouraging beginner level learners to start reading for pleasure.

Time: Approximately 90 minutes. Timings are flexible and teachers can cut activities and add extension activities as required.

Aims

- To introduce the names of different types of text.
- To raise awareness of the idea that we read different texts in different ways.
- To develop learners' ability to read different texts in different ways.
- To introduce reading for pleasure in English.

Objectives

All learners will be able to:

- Name different types of text.
- Understand that different texts are read in different ways and it's not always important to read every word.
- Use skimming, scanning and detailed reading techniques to read different texts.

Some learners may be able to:

- Start reading extensively for pleasure.

Preparation

You will need:

- Worksheet 1 – Reading habits discussion cards: 1 card per small group or written /displayed on the whiteboard for the Warmer.
- Realia: a collection of texts: letter; email; timetable; novel/storybook; menu; newspaper article; advert; receipt; sign; web page; poster; leaflet; text message and/or other texts you feel will be useful for your learners to know the names of, for Activity 1 and the Cooler. Clearly write a number on each of the texts.
- Worksheet 2 – List of text types: 1 per learner for Activity 1. There's an empty space at the bottom of the list to add another text you would like to include.
- Worksheet 3 – Texts: 1 per learner for Activity 3.
- Worksheet 4 – Questions: 1 per learner for Activity 3.
- Examples of different genres of novel, either real or pictures. If you have internet access, using a search engine and selecting 'images' could be very useful for this. Suggested genres: real life; biography; history; romance; comedy; horror; crime; drama, for Activity 4.
- Access to a library which stocks beginner readers. If this is not possible, it is well worth investing in and starting to build up a library of your own. Some are available online and can be downloaded. Useful links include:
 - <http://www.gatehousebooks.co.uk/reading-books/esol-readers/>
 - <http://www.macmillanreaders.com/>
 - https://elt.oup.com/catalogue/items/global/graded_readers/oxford_bookworms_library/?cc=gb&selLanguage=en&mode=hub
- A worksheet of 7 or 8 questions, the answers to which can be found in the texts used in Activity 1, for the Cooler.

For the extension tasks:

Extension 1

Worksheet 5 in Additional resources – Discussion questions: 1 per small group, or written / displayed on the whiteboard.

Extension 2

Worksheet 6 in Additional resources – Example book review and questions about own reading: 1 per learner

Worksheet 7 in Additional resources – Differentiated writing frames for writing a book review: 1 frame per learner.

Introduction to reading strategies

Warmer – Reading habits discussion (10 mins)

- Tell the group about your own reading habits: what you read in your everyday life and for pleasure, when you read and how long for and what kinds of books you like.
- Put the learners in small groups and hand out the discussion cards from Worksheet 1 or display them on the board.
- Ask the learners to discuss the questions together.
- Ask individuals to share with the class information they found out about their group.

Activity 1 – Text types (15 mins)

- Stick the numbered texts (listed under 'preparation' at the start of this lesson plan) around the classroom and hand out the lists of text types from Worksheet 2.
- Ask the learners to walk round the room, finding the text types on their lists and writing the number of the text next to the name.
- Check answers with a partner and as a class.

Activity 2 – Introduction to different reading techniques (10 mins)

- Ask which of the texts we don't need to read every word but just find and pick out specific information (for example the timetable, receipt and poster).
- Hold up the letter and ask learners when we read it quickly and when slowly (probably quickly first to see what it's about, and then slowly if it's important).
- Ask which of the other texts we might read quickly for the general idea (for example the email and advert) and which carefully and slowly (for example the novel).
- Use your finger to demonstrate reading the different texts at different speeds and picking out specific pieces of information.
- If you feel it will be useful for your learners, teach them the expressions skimming, scanning and detailed reading.

Activity 3 – Reading techniques practice (20 mins)

- Hand out Worksheets 3 and 4 and ask learners to read the questions and find the answers in the texts.
- Check answers as a class and as well as getting the correct answer, ask learners how they read the text to find the answer – slowly and carefully or quickly? Did they need to read every word?

Answers:

Task 1: 1, 3, 2, 3, 2, 1

Task 2:

- | | |

| 1. 01632 570436 | 3. 14:19 |
| 2. 12:27 | 4. 35 minutes |
| | 5. 23 minutes |

Differentiation:

- Allow learners to work individually or in pairs for extra support if they wish.
- Task 3 is an optional numeracy activity.

Activity 4 – Genres (10 mins)

- Hold up the novel from Activity 1 and ask who enjoys reading this kind of book, whether in English or their own language.
- Ask learners who say yes what kind of novel they enjoy reading.
- Use the books or images of books you have brought in to elicit the names of different genres and write them on the board.
- Elicit, model and drill the question and answer: 'Do you like history books?' 'Yes, I do. / No, I don't.'
- Put the learners into pairs or small groups and ask them to find out what kinds of books their partner(s) like and feed back to the whole class.

Activity 5 – Encouraging reading for pleasure (30 mins)

- Take the group to the college library or get out the selection of readers you have collected.
- Give the learners as long as they need to browse the books and choose one which interests them.
- With any remaining class time, learners can start reading their books.

Cooler – Running dictation (10 mins)

- Prepare a worksheet of 7 or 8 questions, the answers to which can be found in the texts still scattered around the room from Activity 1.
- Put learners in pairs. One learner reads the first question to their partner who has to run to the correct text to find the answer and run back and tell it to their partner.
- Ask pairs to change roles half way through.
- You could make the activity competitive by awarding a prize to the first pair who finds all the correct answers.

Homework

- Ask learners to read their chosen readers and be prepared to discuss them in the next lesson.

Extension 1 – Discussing books

- Tell the group about a book you have read.
- Put the learners into small groups and hand out the discussion questions from Worksheet 5 or display them on the board.

- Ask groups to discuss the books they read in class or for homework and then ask individuals to feed back to the class.

Extension 2 – Reading and writing a simple book review

- Hand out Worksheet 6 and ask learners to read the review and highlight the following information:
 - The name of the book
 - The name of the writer
 - What kind of book it is
 - The name of the main character
 - What the character does
 - What the story is about
 - If the person reading likes or doesn't like the book.
- Ask the learners to write answers to the questions about a book they read.
- Hand out Worksheet 7 and ask the learners to write their own review using their answers and one of the writing frames.
- Encourage learners to read each other's reviews when choosing their next books. You could display them or make them into a book along with pictures of the books they are reviewing.

Tip: The book reviewed is one of the New Eastenders Series, available here:

<http://www.gatehousebooks.co.uk/reading-books/esol-readers/>
