

Driving in the UK - documents

an insurance certificate	an MOT certificate	a driving licence	a tax disc

Read this information:

- You must have a driving licence. This shows that you have passed your driving test and know how to drive a car.
- You must have an insurance certificate. If you have an accident and you damage another person's car, the insurance company will pay for the repairs.
- You must have road tax. You must pay money to the government to use the roads. You put a tax disc in the front window of your car.
- You must have an MOT certificate for your car if it is 3 years old or older than 3 years. The MOT test checks that your car is safe to drive.

If you have a driving licence from another country you can usually use it to drive in the U.K. for 12 months. For more information look at this website:
